

-----NEW-----

English for Pharmacy students

Classroom meetings with online follow-up and resource support in a learning platform

When: 21. bis 25. Februar 2011

Montag: 8:30-10:45
Mittwoch: 14:00-17:00
Donnerstag: 14:00-16:15
Freitag: 9:00-12:00

Where: CIP-Room, Haus C, Campus Großhadern

Costs: for free

Maximum number of participants: 12 persons

Last date of filing: Fr, 11.2.2011 in the room of the Fachschaft Pharmazie

Tutor: Liam Hogan

In this new English course for pharmacy students, you'll be developing English language skills both for practical work in the laboratory as well as for dealing with study-related English-language literature. Extensive use of the internet will be made to practice reading and listening skills and develop your vocabulary. You will also have plenty of opportunity to develop relevant communicative written and oral skills both in the classroom and in online contributions to our learning platform.

Key topics and skills

- Laboratory procedures
- Describing apparatus
- Oral and written descriptions of experimental work
- Understanding English-language audio-visual materials and text-based literature from the study field

Further information

Recommended language competence level: B2+* (approximately Abitur)
Assessment will be on the basis of regular attendance, active contribution to classroom and online discussions, completing online follow-up work, written and oral presentation of laboratory practicals.

* For a description of language levels as described by the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages (CEFR), see http://de.wikipedia.org/wiki/Gemeinsamer_Europ%C3%A4ischer_Referenzrahmen